I went to Virginia Tech, one of the famous public university in Virginia, Blacksburg. There is a variety of students from different countries and backgrounds. Virginia Tech is known for specialty for technology. The university provides students a good life quality with the balance of studying, working out and proper food. While studying in Virginia Tech, I had been practicing my English and made friends at the same time.

I joined many activities with my friends in different occasions to get to local culture. I traveled to ten different states including New York, Washington DC, West Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Colorado, California, Arizona, Utah, Nevada. Traveling gave me an unforgettable experience to explore new places and meet new friends.

One thing that I will never forget is when I went to the hospital because of insect bite during the river hike. I got 3 big dots on my leg and it was very painful. So I decided go to ER and was charged for 1500 dollars because they couldn't find my insurance on the system. I negotiated with them to reduce the fee to 300 dollars because they overcharged me. A week after that, I filed the insurance claim and the insurance company asked the hospital for itemized bill but they couldn't give it the insurance company. This lesson taught me a lot that I should have done research before I make the decision and go to urgent care instead of ER!
